ANMI bureau of client disputes (ABCD)

ABCD is a secure, online application intended to help ANMI Members to stay informed on disputes that other ANMI Members have faced with their clients. ANMI ABCD is a database of such disputed clients. PAN is the unique identifier to search and identify a particular client. ANMI members can VIEW all the records available in ANMI ABCD database. Further members are also allowed to ADD records and EDIT / REVOKE records that members have added. Once a client record is added to the ABCD database it can be edited only by the member who has added the record. Further the member can also revoke the record if the dispute has been settled. However the record cannot be deleted. All ABCD records can also be Exported to Excel in one click for easy import to back office software or other 3rd party software's. Try it, use it and benefit the broking community.

Step 1

Login to the ANMI website and click on ABCD menu shown at the center of the menu bar

Step 2

The default landing page for ABCD shows the ABCD records entered by the logged in broker. There is also option (on right side) to EDIT/REVOKE the ABCD record added by him

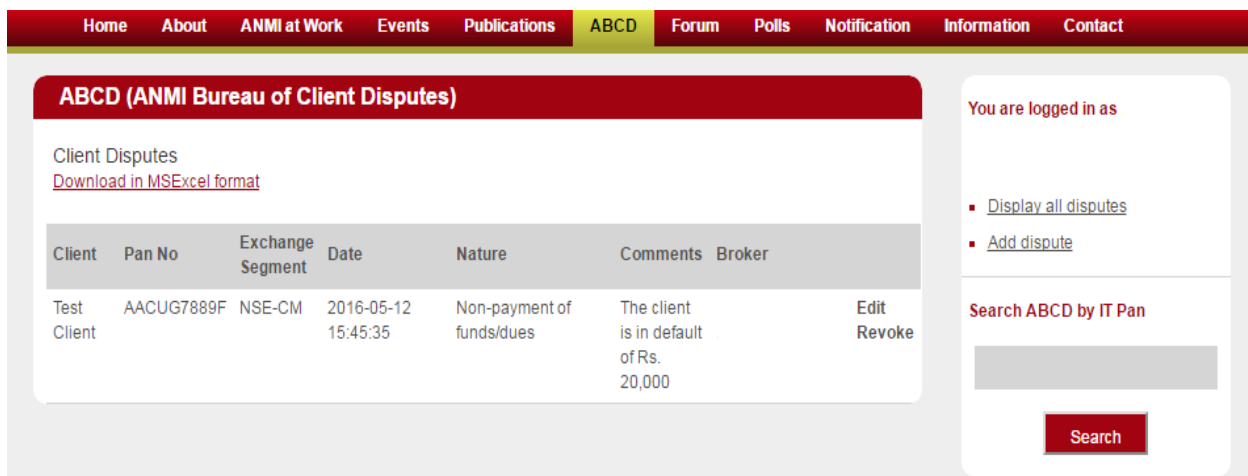

The ABCD details display the Client Name, Client PAN number, Date of insertion of ABCD record, Nature of dispute, Comments etc.

Apart from this on the extreme right hand side there is option to Display all ABCD records which are uploaded by other member brokers also.

There is also an option to ADD DISPUTE.

You can also search a client by entering the PAN number of client and clicking on Search button

You can also click on the Download to MSExcel format link to download all the ABCD records in excel.
